JENNET.
When absent from the lad I love, When e'er his name re-peating; A p
thousand doubts and fears I prove, That set my heart a beating.
When o-ther swains to court be-gin, My heart still makes re-sistance; I

But now the lad I love is by,
Away with all dissembling;
Nor can I think what makes me sigh,
Or sets my heart a trembling:
My love I'll fearlessly impart,
Nor e'en pretend resistance;
I'll take him fondly to my heart,
Nor bid him keep his distance.
With no, no, no, And fal lal la!
